

Lesson #5

Idiomatic Expressions

“To have”

Lesson Plan by Catherine Schell

Idiomatic Expressions

“to have”

WARM-UP:

Look at the excerpt of a famous children song:

I've got sixpence, jolly, jolly sixpence!
I've got sixpence to last me all my life.
I've got sixpence to spend and sixpence to lend
And sixpence to send home to my wife, – poor wife.

What have you got?

Idiomatic Expressions “to have”

TEXTS

At the Doctor's Office

Patient Doctor! I think I have a cold.
Dr. Walter Well, let's see. Do you have a runny nose? Do you have a fever?
Patient Yes I have a small fever. And my wife has a runny nose too.
Dr. Walter Okay. Does she have a fever as well?
Patient No, she doesn't have a fever.
Dr. Walter Well, in this case she has to rest and drink lots of fluids.
Patient Okay. Thank you doctor.
Dr. Walter Here is a prescription for you. Have a good day.
Patient Thank you, you too!

At School

Raphaël I've got too much homework this week. I have two essays to write.
Steve Oh, I'm busy too. Do you have time this weekend to hang out?
Raphaël Yeah. My sister is here this weekend though. She has Monday off work.
Steve Oh, nice. I've got an idea: how about a party on Friday night?
Raphaël Well, we have plans for Friday. But Saturday we are free.
Steve Sounds good. Saturday it is, then. I've got to tell my roommates. Hopefully they don't have anything to do on Saturday.
Raphaël Keep me posted, and have fun with your essays!
Steve Thanks! Have a good one, see you later.

Work on the Texts

1. What differences in the conjugation / uses of the verb ‘have’ do you see between the texts?

2. How does (in)formality impact the use / treatment of the verb ‘have’?

LESSON

To have

I have - I've
You have - You've
He/she/it has - He/she/it's

We have - We've
You have - You've
They have - They've

‘To have’ implies the meaning of possession.

Examples: The patient has a cold.
Steve has a sister.
You have a pen.

Used informally, ‘have got’ is synonymous with ‘have’.

Examples: I've got a car => I have a car.
Steve's got a sister => Steve has a sister.

Attention!! The contractions ‘ve and ‘s can only be used when a verb is following. Be careful not to confuse the verb ‘be’ in “He's a student” and the verb “have” in “He's got a pen”.

There is also another use of this verb: to have to + verb. This construction implies obligation.

Examples: Steve has to work => “Steve is obligated to work”
We have to study English => “We are obliged to study English”

‘Have’ is also used in some set phrases or idiomatic expressions that are widely used in English:

Examples: Have a good day / night!
Have fun! Have a good one!
The haves and have nots

Exercises

1. Give the correct conjugation of the verb 'have':

John and Mary _____ a black car.

She _____ two sisters and a brother.

You and I _____ a lot of luck.

I _____ a good job.

He _____ work to do.

2. You / your family / your friends

Describe your family and your friends, using the verbs 'have' and 'be' in two different sentences.

Example: I have a good friend in Washington DC. He is a student at George Washington University.

3. Treasure hunt:

Find students / classmates who have one of the following, then present them to the class.

cat	a trip planned	a birthday in December
3 siblings	A friend in another country	garden
a farmer for a neighbor
a book or newspaper in another language

Example: (to classmate) Do you have a cat?

(classmate) I've got / I have a cat.

(to the class) He/she has a cat.

3. Group activity:

At the doctor's office: students create short dialogues between a doctor and a patient, similar to the main text, using some of the vocabulary provided below.

to eat well	ear ache	bandage
to have energy	headache	check-up
to be active	stomach ache	dose (of medicine)
to be fit	toothache	drugs
to be in shape	cold	injection
to exercise	flu	medicine
to play sports	heart attack	operation
to go on a diet	heart disease	pain-killer
to lose weight	infection	pill
to ache	disease	plaster
to cough	pain	tablet
to take medicine	virus	tranquilizer

Ask your teacher for vocabulary assistance. Playing charades is one way to learn new vocabulary without looking up the words in a dictionary.
